Office Deliveries

Most deliveries to the office building will be consolidated off site prior to arriving at the loading bay.

As it is difficult to consolidate perishable goods and F&B deliveries containing frozen/chilled or fresh fruit. These deliveries will go direct to the Site but will be scheduled to ensure loading bays are available.

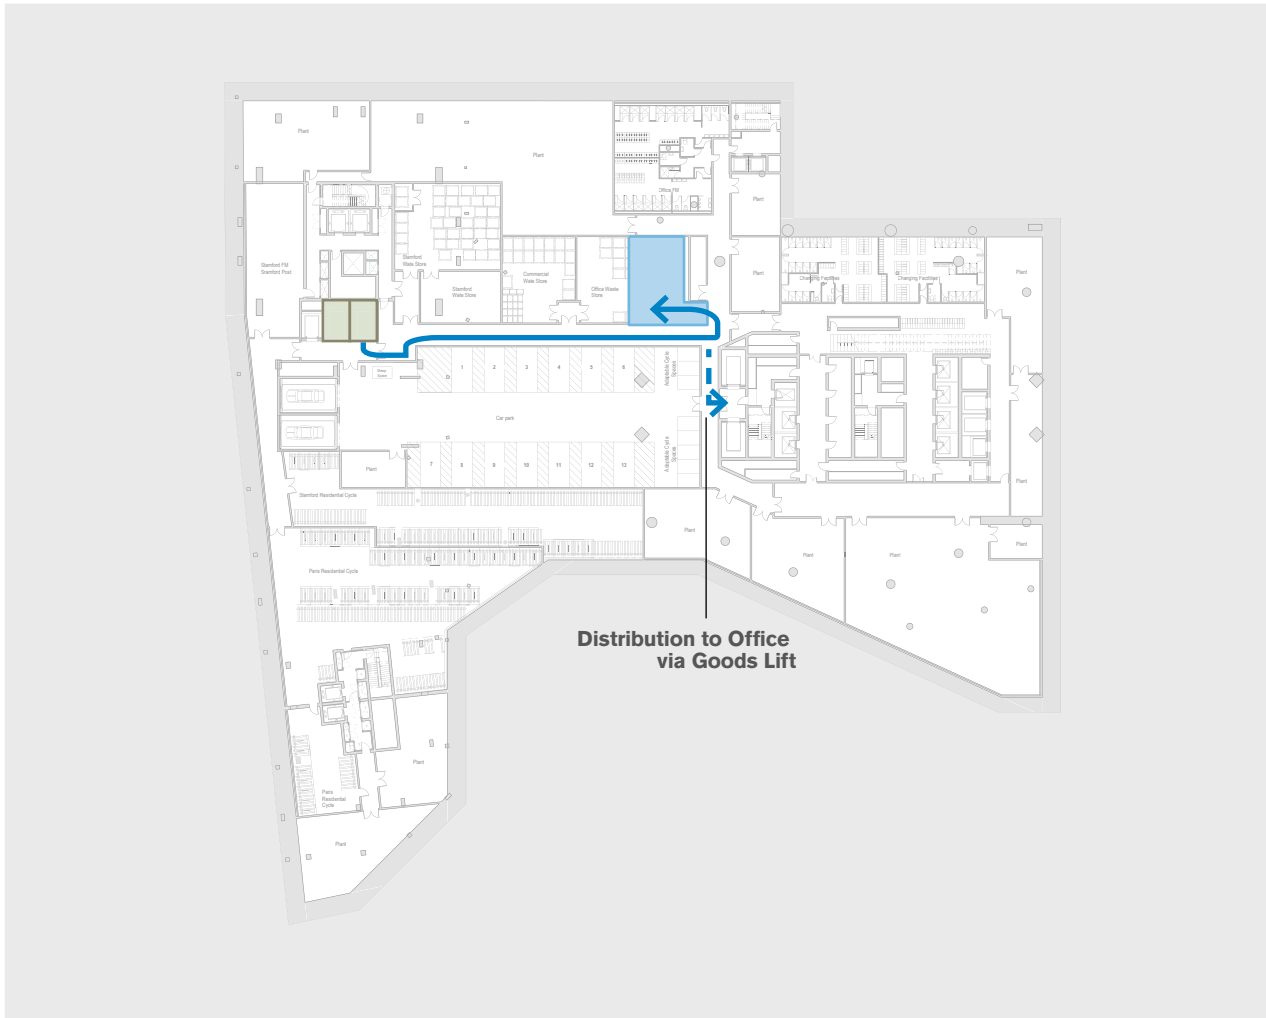

This centralised consolidation system will reduce the total number of deliveries, ensuring a reduction in congestion both within local streets as well as the loading bay.

From the loading bay, office deliveries will be sent to the post room via the goods lift. Vehicle lifts can also be used to transport large goods. Once arriving at the post room, deliveries are sorted and distributed to the Office Building via the office core lifts.

Commercial Deliveries

All commercial post arrives at the loading bay and is distributed to the relevant retail stores via back of house (BOH) access routes as well as some front of house (FOH) entrances.

Commercial deliveries can also be distributed at Basement Level 02, to be transported across the Site below ground to the west retail spaces.

Residential Short Stay and Small Post Delivery Strategy

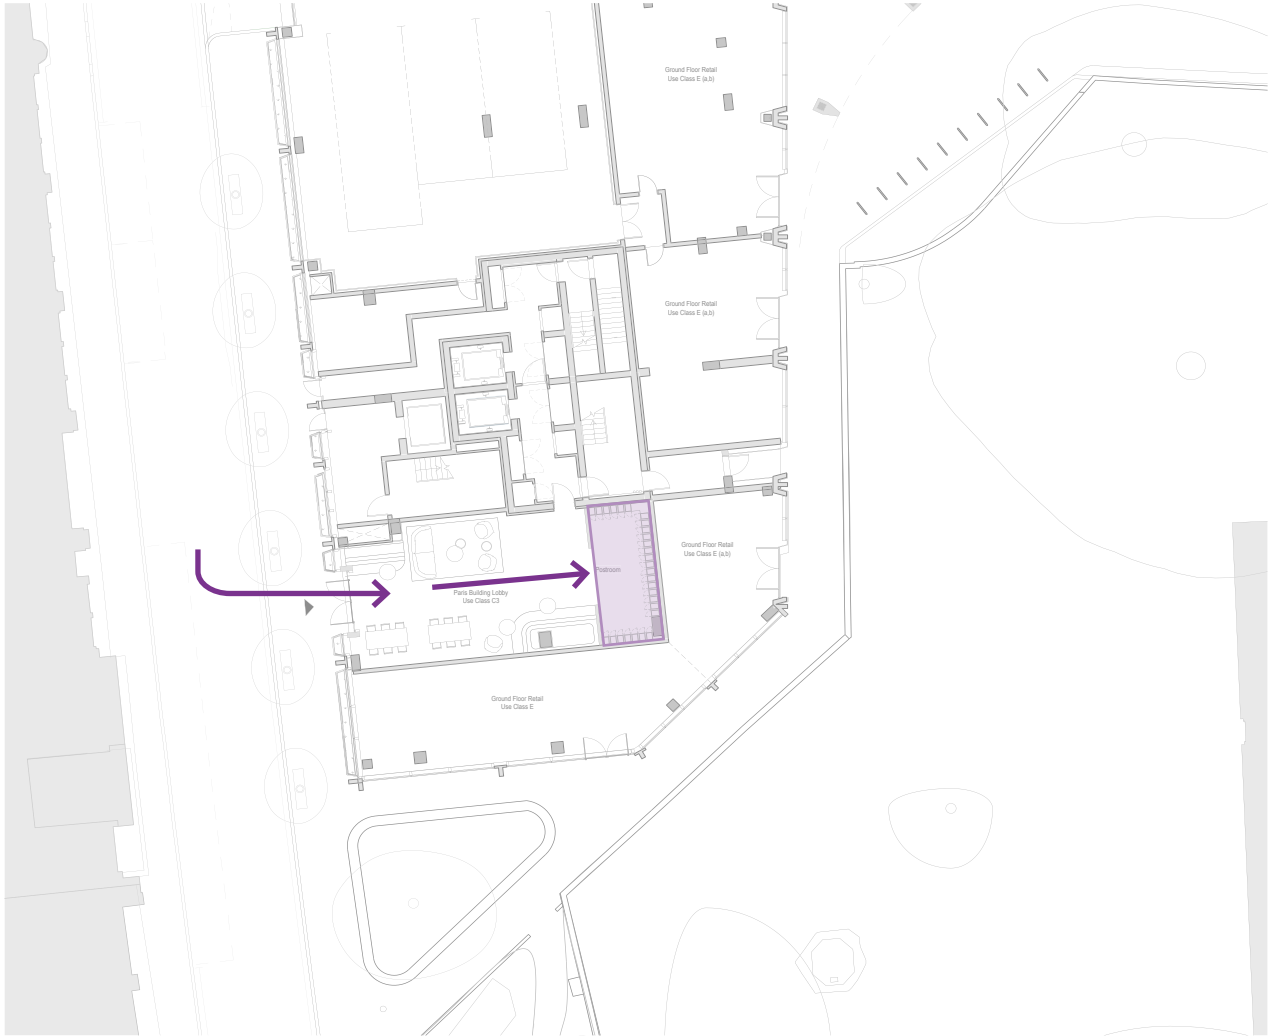

In both the Stamford and Paris Buildings Royal Mail and small deliveries are to post boxes located within the entrance lobbies. The Stamford building has a concierge lobby where smaller deliveries can be stored for collection. It would be expected that residents of both buildings must be available to accept deliveries of perishable goods.

Large deliveries and removals for both residential building will be via the loading bay and directly to the residential cores.

Stamford Residential Large Parcel Delivery Strategy

For large parcels arriving at Stamford Building, all packages will be logged and stored in the Basement Level 02 post room. Deliveries will then be redistributed to residents via the concierge desk upon the time of collection. To ease and support the concierge staff during parcel collection from Basement Level 02, the room also provides space for a trolley which can be utilised to transport parcels up to ground level.
