

Making a root move through a maze

Make the mazes below by photocopying onto transparencies and then cutting out. To measure the rate of growth, draw these mazes onto graph paper and then photocopy onto transparencies. The pupils can then calculate how far the root has grown per day.

