The new jewel of Los Jerónimos

In Los Jerónimos, one of the most exclusive neighborhoods next to Madrid's Art Triangle

Mercer Madrid is the new treasure of Los Jerónimos, one of the most unique stately neighbourhoods in the capital, nestled in the sought-after residential area behind the City Hall, between Paseo del Prado and El Retiro, La Cibeles and Puerta de Alcalá.

Mercer Madrid guests have views of the Madrid Stock Exchange and are next door to the Prado Museum, the Thyssen-Bornemisza Museum and the Reina Sofía Museum.

The Spanish Sugar Society headquarters

In a building designed in 1905 by the architect Enrique M^a Repullés y Vargas, Mercer Madrid occupies the former corporate headquarters of the Spanish Sugar General Society, created to group and represent the national beet sugar industry, after the loss of the last Spanish colonies.

Mercer Madrid brings together the talents of Repullés y Vargas (one of the most distinguished architects of the early 20th century) and RCCyP -one of the most promising architectural studios nowadays-, creating an exquisite continuity in architectural excellence.
