Our doors are wide open, and we're reintroducing learners to a Lambton College that's better than ever. I invite you to come into our new buildings and take in our state-of-the-art labs and active learning classrooms. Tour one of the leading athletics facilities in Ontario colleges, and picture yourself in the stands cheering on some of the best varsity teams in the province.

I want you to be greeted by the faculty, staff and students that make up our inclusive and caring college community. To get a feel for the strong community ties we've cultivated that will support you as you prepare for a career in a region that is always ready and waiting for our graduates.

I want you to begin to understand the uncompromising quality of our career-focused programming, and our college-wide focus on wellness that will support you from application to graduation. To be introduced to our nationally ranked research department, our globally renowned student teams, and what I consider the best Student Administrative Council in the entire college system.

RESEARCH

#1 in Canada for the number of paid student research positions.

Lambton College believes that engaging students in applied research activities provides the best platform to reinforce their educational programming, connect them with relevant industry and organizations, help them develop new skills, and enhance their employability.

Since 2007, our College has hired over 1,300 student researchers. Students participating in applied research activities increase their level of employability, which has resulted in more than 90 per cent of our research students finding jobs in their related fields following graduation. In fact, many of our students are hired directly by our project partners due to their experience and knowledge gained while working with the company's processes and products.

Continued strength in research while fostering a culture of innovation for students has repeatedly landed Lambton College one of the top spots on the list of Canada's top research colleges. We've found ourselves on the top 5 list for the past 5 years!

This means you will:

- › Gain hands-on research experience
- › Work on campus, while you study
