

Thinking through Criminology

Humanities

The study of criminology, the role of the media & crime prevention around the world

This course develops knowledge and understanding of the way crime and criminal justice operates and it covers areas such as crime in the community and crime scenes. You will be examining real criminal cases and examples to delve into the reasons why people commit crime and why crime is still prevalent in our communities today.

Skills Focus

Digital Learning

Enterprise

Leadership

Literacy

MESP

Numeracy

Thinking

Recognition of Achievement

L6 NPA Criminology unit - Crime in the Community

Learning Intentions & Success Criteria

Learning Intentions

I will:

- describe and categorise crimes in the community.
- identify different ways crime in the community is reported by the media.
- describe measures in place to address crime in the community.

Success Criteria

I can:

- describe how crimes are categorised by the police service.
- categorise the types of crime being reported in the community.
- name different mass media that report crime within the community.
- identify emotive language used in the reporting of crime by different media.
- describe the possible effect that media reporting can have on the perception of crime in the community.
- identify crime prevention strategies in the community.
- describe sanctions taken against offenders.