Is it Legal to Get Elementor Pro for Free? Understanding the GPL License

This is a very important and common question. The simple answer is: YES, it is 100% legal to download and use the GPL version of Elementor Pro.

Here's why: WordPress and any software created for it (like themes and plugins) are released under the GNU General Public License (GPL). This license is the foundation of WordPress's open-source nature. The GPL grants everyone the freedom to use, study, modify, and redistribute the software.

When you buy Elementor Pro from the official website, you are primarily paying for two things:

1. A license key for automatic, one-click updates from your WordPress dashboard.
2. Access to their premium customer support team.

The plugin's code itself remains under the GPL. Therefore, it is perfectly legal for us to share the original, untouched Elementor Pro file with you.

What we are offering is NOT an "elementor pro nulled download." Nulled versions are dangerous. They are cracked by third parties and often contain malware, viruses, or hidden backdoors that can compromise your website's security. The file you will download from us is the original, safe, and clean GPL version.
