

SECTION 3

Scottish Amateur Football Association Social Media Policy

(Introduced at SAFA - AGM 17 June 2013)

What this policy covers

This policy sets out the Association's position on members' use of social networking sites and blogs, whether conducted on Club/League/Association media and in work time or your own private media in your own time.

Your responsibilities

Social networking sites and blogs offer a useful means of keeping in touch with friends and colleagues, and they can be used to exchange views and thoughts on shared interests, both personal and work-related.

The Association does not object to you setting up personal accounts on social networking sites or blogs on the internet, in your own time and using your own computer systems. However, you must not do so on Club/League/Association media or in work time.

You must not link your personal social networking accounts or blogs to the Club/League/Association's website. Any such links require the Club/League/Association's prior consent.

You must not disclose Club/League/Association secrets, breach copyright, defame the Club/League/Association or its members, officials, clients, suppliers, customers or employees, or disclose personal data or information about any individual that could breach the Data Protection Act 1998 on your blog or on your social networking site.

Social networking site posts or blogs should not be insulting or abusive to members, officials, clients, suppliers, customers or employees

References to the Club/League/Association

If reference is made to your membership or to the Club/League/Association, you should state to the reader that the views that you express are your views only and that they do not reflect the views of the Club/League/Association. You should include a notice such as the following:

'The views expressed on this website/blog are mine alone and do not reflect the views of my Club/League/Association'

You should always be conscious of your duty as a member to act in good faith and in the best interests of the Club/League/Association under the constitution of the Scottish Amateur Football Association. The Association will not tolerate criticisms posted in messages in the public domain or on blogs about the Association or any other person connected to the Association.

You must not bring the Club/League/Association into disrepute through the content of your website entries or your blogs.

Any misuse of social networking sites or blogs as mentioned above may be regarded as a disciplinary offence and may result in cancellation of membership.

You should be aware that any information contained in social networking sites may be used in evidence, if relevant, to any disciplinary proceedings.

Third parties

You must not disclose any information that is confidential or proprietary to the Club/League/Association or to any third party that has disclosed information to the Club/League/Association. The Data Protection Act 1998 (detailed elsewhere) provides guidance about what constitutes confidential information.

Procedure

Breaches of this policy will be dealt with under the Club/League/Association's Disciplinary Procedure. You should be aware that the Club/League/Association regards breach of any part of this policy as gross misconduct that may result in disciplinary action up to and including cancellation of membership.

If you become aware of information relating to the Club/League/Association posted on the internet, you should bring this to the attention of the relevant Secretary.
