Website Accessibility

An accessible website is a website that allows people with disabilities and elderly people to browse with the same amount of efficiency and pleasure as other browsers. About 20 to 25% of the population face difficulty when using the internet and may benefit from more accessible web content, according to a 2003 Microsoft study.

Tabit believes in and works to create equal opportunities on the internet space for individuals with various disabilities and for people using assistive technology for computer usage.

Information on Website Accessibility

This site complies with the 2013 Equal Rights for Persons with Disabilities Regulations (Accessibility Adjustments for Service).

- Accessibility adjustments were made by the recommendations of the AA level and the international WCAG2.0 standard.
- The trials were tested for the highest compatibility with the Chrome browser.
- The website provides a semantic structure for assistive technologies and supports the standard operation patterns using a keyboard, with the arrows, Enter and Esc-for exiting menus and windows.
- Adjusted for display in popular browsers and use on mobile phones.
- Documents or videos uploaded to the site before October 2017 may not be fully accessible. If you come across such a document or video, you can contact us, and we will make the information accessible to you.
- Delivery of information in an accessible format - the company offers its customers the option of receiving information in accessible formats. The provision of information is free of charge and is intended for people with disabilities. For inquiries and information regarding accessibility, you can contact the accessibility coordinator of the company, the details of which appear later in the statement.
- For maximizing the browsing experience with screen reading software, we recommend using the latest NVDA program.
- A-2-Z Internet Accessibility and Marketing leading consultants performed the accessibility audit for the website

Contact Ways for Requests and Suggestions for Improving Accessibility

We continue our efforts to improve company accessibility as part of our commitment to enable an accessible service to the general public, including people with disabilities.

Should you encounter any problem or issue with accessibility, please let us know, and we will make every effort to find a suitable solution and handle the problem as soon as possible.
