ENGLAND E. HELAND.

In England and Scotland the unfortunate embarraseed peasant is free from incarceration for debt. But in Ireland—wretched Ireland the poor man is immured in a Dungeon for months or years for a few pounds.

This day (Saturday) Mr. CLERAN, the Insolvent Judge had brought up before him ten wretched beings the aggregate of whose detainers did not amount to trently pounds or an average of two pounds each. Many of whom have been in jail for six months and, we believe the expense of whose support off the county nearly amounts to the claims upon them, and the whole of whose preperty is not swort forty shillings, and the county in the co

Court—Mr. Harrison here is a petition on the part of a poor woman who says we received the fees for filing her husband; petition, and did not.

Mr. Harrison pledged himself that the petition and fees were lodged in the proper office, but by some fatality it was not field. He would have the man her out on bail at his own expense till next commission.

The Court directed the petition to be east to him to Dublin this day week, and he would then see how far Mr. Harrison was answerable for his neglect.

The Court requested Mr. Cusack weel forward it to him.

The Usuiness having terminated, the cour.
