

The Coyle/Coile Family Tree

Valentine Felton “Felty” Coyle/Coile approximately 1690-1766

Wife Margaret

Felty and Margaret Coile family arrived in America in the early 1700's from Ireland and settled in Augusta County, Virginia. For some members of the family the name is spelled Coyle, Coyl, Coile, Coil, Kile and or Kyle. But for Felty Coile it was spelled Coile or Coyle. Later some of the grandsons dropped the “e” from the last name and spelled it Coil. Valentine and Margaret purchased 230 acres of farm property on 17th November 1761. It was located on the south branch of the Potomac River above Trout Rock. Prior to that time Valentine and his sons leased property from the Scot/Irish Settlement Co. managed by Patrick Martin. By the time his eldest son Gabriel moved the family to Ohio many land deeds spelled the name Coyle on legal documents.

DNA tests of the Valentine Coile line are now complete as of 2008. The DNA listed by scientists as the R1b especially heaviest found in the west of Ireland all up and down the western coast of Ireland appearing in 100 percent of the population.

Amos Coil married in 1860 Sarah Hoppes Coil who was born May 14, 1830. A daughter was still born to Amos and Sarah Hoppes Coil on March 5, 1865. Sarah Hoppes Coil died the following day on March 6, 1865 from the effects of childbirth. Both mother and infant are buried in the Coil Cemetery on Palmer Rd., Fayette County, Ohio beside Amos Coil. Ruth VanKirk Coil is buried beside Sarah and her infant also in that plot. There is one unmarked plot in that row between the infant of Sarah and Ruth VanKirk. I suspect that the infant of Ruth VanKirk Coil is laid to rest in that unmarked plot. The marker has been lost!!!!
