NOTE ON PARISHES

The City of Limerick is divided into five parishes, St. Mary and St. Nicholas, St. Munchin, St. John, St. Michael, and St. Patrick. The boundaries of the Protestant and Catholic parishes are roughly the same. Since all the registers are of considerable size, and most of considerable age, it is desirable to have some guide as to the parish required. The following is an attempt to identify the streets named in the Directories of 1769 (see our issue of October, 1964) and 1788 and to place them within their parish.

Assembly House (Charlotte's Quay)—St. Michael or St. John.
Back Lane—St. John.
Ball's Bridge (across the Abbey river) between St. John and St. Mary.
Bank Place (in which stood the old St. Michael's Church)—St. Michael.
