* Address of freeholder:

This can be provided in the form of street, town or city.

1803 Londonderry Estate Records for Donaghmore Parish.

PRONI Reference: D654/A/2/13

General livestock and agricultural census exist for each townland within the Parish of Donaghmore. It is worth looking at, if only to see what was produced in your townland compared to others, some townlands were producers of grain, other animals or turf cutting. Unlike most parishes which includes returns for each family, plus a list of men able to serve if called, Donaghmore is incomplete, only the townland of Ballylough has a list of names.

1829 Tithe Applotment Record, Donaghmore, County Down

Compiled between 1823-1837. Regardless of religion, a tax on occupiers of agricultural land greater than 1 acre, to support the established church (Church of Ireland).

PRONI References:

FIN/5/A/108A

FIN/5/A/108B

FIN/5/A/108C

Most Donaghmore townlands are found in all three references, but presented in slightly different formats, check all three reference numbers. Names, number of acres occupied and value of the land is given.

Includes townlands:

Aughnacaven, Ardkeragh [Ardkeiragh, Ardkeeragh], Ringclare, Ringlish, Cargoachbaun [Cargoachbawn, Cargochbawn], Bushkill [Buskill], Anaghbaun [Annaghbawn], Tullymurray [Tullymurry], Ringbaun [Ringbawn, Ringbane], Ballylough [Ballyblough, Ballyblaugh], Carrickrovaddy [Carrickovaddy, Carruavaddy], Ballybough, Lurganare [Lurganar, Lurgananare], Nockanarney [knockanarney], Drumiller [Drummiller], Corgary [Corgrea, Corgany?], Drumantine [Dromantine], Killysavin [Killysavane, Killysaven], Ballymacratty beg [Ballymacaratty bog], Ballymacrattymore [Ballymacarattymore], Derrycraw [Derracra], Tullymore, Augentubber [Aughintober], Moneymore [Minnymore, Minneymore], Maddydumbreste [Maddydumbrist, Maddydrumbrist]

Repository: Public Record office of Northern Ireland (PRONI)

Link to records: <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/services/search-pronis-ecatalogue>

Additional Note: The tithes went to the Church of Ireland. Some occupiers who were of other religions refused to pay and this created a list of defaulters. No records online for Donaghmore at this time.

These 115 transcriptions for Donaghmore Parish are just a small fraction of available deeds. To search for deeds that have not been indexed, click on the heading Familysearch Navigational Aids. You can search by Grantor or Townland. For hints and guides to understanding Deed Records, see the tab Guides or click on the link: <https://irishdeedsindex.net/guides/index.php>. When you are finished searching take the time to complete the transcription form for your ancestor (or just select a random individual), complete a form and submit. Every transcription helps the data base grow!

The deeds contain more information than what you would expect. As an example a 1766 Deed mentions a father's will and a marriage article for Dawsons of Ballymacratty, Donaghmore, surnames include Dawson and Skeffington, see the entry in The Silver bowl (another excellent genealogical site) at: <https://www.thesilverbowl.com/documents/ROD500-619.html> or check for updates and other indexes at: <https://www.thesilverbowl.com/index.html> or
