About me

I took a degree in English literature at Southampton University then joined British Road Services and qualified as a transport manager, with financial qualifications, from Aston University. On moving from the Cotswolds to the West Midlands I did a PGCE course and began a teaching career of 26 years during which I have taught every primary year group and held various positions of responsibility. I have had many interests in education including: literacy, curriculum innovation, outdoor education and school improvement.

Why I am a member of the LAC at St James

I strongly believe that in this increasingly complex world children deserve the very best start that we can give.

St James as a small, Christian, village school has a wonderful family feeling whilst reaching out to the community and wider world. I want to make my contribution to making St James' the very best it can possibly be, to give pupils a firm foundation for their future lives.
