Funky Festivals with Ted's Travel

The world's most unusual festivals can offer you a short break to remember.

Great Britain

For those who prefer home turf, Britain hosts some truly bizarre events. Our exclusive packages cover two of the best.

The end of May sees the annual Cheese-Rolling at Cooper's Hill. A group of reckless contestants chase a large Double Gloucester cheese down a very steep hill. Here at Ted's, we don't advise participation in this event, but we do guarantee you will have a fantastic viewing spot at the sidelines. We'll also set you up in a luxury treehouse overlooking the hill, and the next day will be spent exploring the charming Gloucestershire countryside.

In late August, the World Bog-Snorkelling Championships take place in Wales. This competition involves swimming along a ditch cut into a bog whilst wearing a snorkel and flippers. Ted's Travel owns several luxury cottages in the area, all equipped with hot showers and fluffy towels. The bog is also situated near to some fascinating Bronze and Iron Age sites, so even if bog snorkelling doesn't appeal, there are plenty of adventures to be had.

Heading Abroad

Ted's Travel also offers trips overseas, and Spain is a favourite destination. You could visit the town of Buñol for the exhilarating La Tomatina: a chaotic food fight involving 20,000 people firing tonnes of ripe tomatoes at each other. Or you could travel to the city of Bilbao for the nine-day Semana Grande festival, which includes a local competition to make the ugliest facial expression.

Ted's also offer trips to some remarkable festivals in other countries, including the Moose Dropping festival in Alaska, or the 'Night of the Radishes' in Mexico.
