Home Learners

Dear Parents,

We've had a productive week here at Stockingford Academy. Our learning projects this week have been all about "Inventions", and have ignited so much curiosity and intrigue in the children! We hope those of you learning at home have also found this topic interesting and fun.

Parent Surveys

Thanks to those families who responded to our online surveys published last week, one in relation to Relationship and Sex Education and the second in relation to Home-Learning. The responses we collected as a trust are now being analysed, but the general picture is one of positivity and praise. It's always fantastic to get your feedback, and we really appreciate you taking the time to share your views. The staff have worked so hard to provide a rounded yet manageable curriculum plan for the weekly home-learning tasks and we have worked hard to ensure coverage and engaging tasks. We have also had some really useful suggestions, and we're working in the background to incorporate them where possible. If you haven't yet had chance to complete the surveys, they will still be available until July 7th and we'd encourage you to share your views. The links are below:

Both surveys will remain open until Monday 7th July at 4pm

Wishing you a lovely weekend,
Mrs Bowser

Reports and New Classes

We understand that there will be lots of wonderings and questions about classes and new teachers for next year. Next week, we will be hand delivering an envelope with:

- Details of your child's new teacher
- School report
- Transition activities to be completed

Please read the information carefully. There will also be a stamped addressed envelope as there will be some things which we need posted back to school before the end of term.

It's an exciting but nerve wracking time of year. Hopefully the things we have put in place will ease some of your nerves.

Bubble Timings

If your child is currently attending school in either the Reception, Y1, Y6 or Key Worker, bubbles please make sure you stick to the start and finish times allocated to your Bubble. To keep us all safe, it's important that they are adhered to.

Parent Support

CWMind are offering a series of free online support sessions for parents.
