This week's news includes:

Teaching and learning information

Health and mental wellbeing

UK Government advice

Dear Parents, Carers and Children,
We hope you've had a lovely week. Our learning projects have been all about "Inventions", and it has been marvellous to hear all the creativity that has unfolded as children have been busy inventing their own useful items. We hope those of you learning at home have also found this topic interesting and fun.

Parent Surveys

Thanks to those families who responded to our online surveys published last week, one in relation to Relationship and Sex Education and the second in relation to Home-Learning. The responses we collected as a trust are now being analysed, but the general picture is one of positivity and praise. It's always fantastic to get your feedback, and we really appreciate you taking the time to share your views. The staff have worked so hard to provide a rounded yet manageable curriculum plan for the weekly home-learning tasks and we have worked hard to ensure coverage and engaging tasks. We have also had some really useful suggestions, and we're working in the background to incorporate them where possible. If you haven't yet had chance to complete the surveys, they will still be available until July 7th and we'd encourage you to share your views. The links are below:

Home Learning Survey Monkey

New RSE Curriculum

<https://www.surveymonkey.co.uk/r/InspireRSE>

Both surveys will remain open until Monday 7th July at 4pm

Reports and new class information

Individual school reports and transition information will be posted out today so please keep a look out for them. Children attending school will be given their packs on Monday ☺

Free School Meals

Do you think you should be entitled to Free School Meals?

Do you receive Free School Meals but haven't been eligible for food vouchers during Covid 19 and wonder why not?

Do you want to know how the school will receive an extra £1,300 to support your child in school?

Look out for more information on School Comms or why not.....
