Parenting Tip of the Week

Separate the behaviour from the child.

Never tell a child they are bad, this reduces self-esteem. Help your child to recognise that it is not them that you don't like, it is the behaviour they are displaying, that you are not willing to tolerate. In order for a child to have healthy self-esteem, they must know that they are loved unconditionally, no matter what they do. Try not to motivate your child by withdrawing your love from them. Say things like "I love you very much, but I do not like what you did just now" or "when you do.....it makes me feel....."
