Our Learning this week

Thank you for all of your efforts this week and with all of the live learning. You have done exceptionally well throughout the last 7 weeks of online learning and I am so proud of you all.

In maths, we have explored the properties of a variety of polygons, understanding the relationship with angles. As well as this, we then developed our understanding of 3D shapes and their nets. You were then able to apply this into creating your own 3D model.

In English, you have planned, drafted, edited and published your writing for the opening of 'The invention of Hugo Cabret'. I have been so impressed with the quality of work you've produced this week and really have enjoyed seeing the quality of your published work.

In Reading, we've continued to explore the whole class text and developed our understanding of the text we have been reading. As well as this, we've explored a couple of texts linked to the origins of inventions that are part of everyday life now.

In Learning Mission, we've started to create our own designs for the cam toys we will be making and thought carefully about how this will work for our target audience.

In Science, we were able to look at the heart and think carefully about the process it goes through when pumping blood around the body.

Homework

It is still very important for children to be reading every day. If you need to pick up a new book, please let me know and this can be arranged. However, make sure you relax, switch off and enjoy your weekend.
