Dear Parents and Carers,

As you know last week, the children all took part in a Remembrance Day arts and crafts afternoon where they created beautiful #HallingPoppyTrail pebbles and poppies.

Yesterday, the children were visited by the poet James Carter and, inspired by him, they have been busy writing their own outstanding poems.

Next week, we are excited to share with you that each year group will be going on a Halling Village Walk so that the children can place their pebbles in the local community and deliver some 'poetry post' through doors in the village, to share their wonderful poems.

If you're a lucky recipient of one of the poems or you spot one of our Remembrance pebbles, we would love to know what you think! On Twitter, use the hashtag #HallingPoppyTrail or #HallingPoetryPost and tag us @HallingSch so that we can retweet and share your feedback with the children. We hope you love the poems and pebbles as much as we do.

The following table indicates when each year group will be on their village walk. Please ensure that you give consent for this local visit via the School Gateway app under 'Halling Village Walk'.

Best wishes,

Miss Alexandra Finch & Mrs Lucy Nicholls
