INTRODUCTION

Children are natural readers. They are constantly learning about their environment through interaction, exploration, trial and error, and “having a go at things”. Children watch what adults do then act out what they have seen. This role-play of adult behaviour is an intrinsic component of childhood learning. As a child’s world of experience expands, so deeper understandings are constructed. New learning is always built upon existing foundations, and existing structures are constantly being adapted to accommodate fresh insights.

From a very early age children can be encouraged to enjoy books by sharing them with adults. The six-month old child who turns the pages of a board book is beginning to behave like a reader.

The adult can build upon this by giving support and encouragement. By demonstrating how books work, talking about the illustrations and indicating how they relate to the print, the adult is showing the child the meaning and purposes for reading. Children need to understand this so that they will be motivated to read. Children can be encouraged to retell stories and by valuing their attempts to make sense of the print, the adult can foster an enthusiasm for and a positive attitude to reading.

Children also learn from their environment and their interaction with others. In our literate society, environmental print demonstrates the many purposes for reading and encourages children to develop an understanding to the written word. Children, therefore, become literate in the same way as they learn to speak their home language. By experimenting, taking risks and interacting with more skilled languages users, children are reading for real purposes in meaningful context.

Children learn to read by reading

Context: The Literate Environment

“Children should be encouraged from the earliest stage to pay attention to the various forms of the printed word and the function it serves.”

Children need to understand that there are many different purposes for reading e.g. information, pleasure and instruction. They are surrounded by print from their earliest days, at home, and in the wider community. Teachers and parents can inspire this interest by taking children on a “print walk” around the neighbourhood: collecting examples of notices. Signs, advertisements and labels etc. Including non written symbols and in some areas printed in different languages, scripts, forms, circulars and visual texts.

Within the home there are often newspapers, books, letters, forms, circulars and food packages. Television advertisements, with the spoken and written word and supporting visual images also have a powerful influence and are assimilated easily by children.

Within the community there are many examples of environmental print e.g. street names, large advertisements, hoardings, shop signs, notice boards etc. In the shops and supermarkets children soon learn to recognise foods, sweets, crisps by their distinctive labels.

Children’s awareness of print must be acknowledged and valued. Building on their knowledge and experience, adults and children can work together to create a print rich environment. In this process, opportunities will arise for adults to model, read and share the meaning of the written word.

Pupils should encounter an environment in which they are surrounded in books and other reading material presented in an inviting and attractive way. The reading material should include which relates to the real world, such as labels, captions, notices children’s newspapers, books of instruction, plans and maps, diagrams, computer print outs and visual display.”

English in the National Curriculum

Working Together

We believe that parents play a vital role in helping their child learn to read. After all they taught the child to talk. School and home working in partnership together create the perfect setting for encouraging a love of reading. We appreciate the commitment Parents give in helping their child to become confident readers.

Choosing Books

At our school we use several reading schemes. We also have a large bank of colour coded fiction and non-fiction books for children to read.

As well as their reading scheme book, the children are encouraged to choose from our extensive library, they may bring home books which they cannot read alone and favourite books which they have read repeatedly (you may find that a very loved story like this is the first one that your child learns to read independently).

We believe that children should:

- Behave like readers
- Be confident
- Enjoy books
- Talk about the books they have read
- Acquire a skill, which they will use throughout life.

SUPPORTING THE INITIAL STAGES OF READING DEVELOPMENT

WHAT CAN A PARENT DO AT HOME?

- Try to choose a quiet time every night with your child, and make yourselves comfortable
- Let your child hold the book
- Point to the words as you read them
- Use the pictures as well; there is often an additional story in them
- Allow plenty of time for discussion before you turn over a page. A valuable question is: "What do you think will happen next?"
- Let the child read the story to you afterwards, even if this is reciting by heart, or making the story up from the pictures. This is a very important stage. Memorising is not cheating. Make reading fun!
- Children learn to behave like readers by these activities. Praise all their attempts
- If your child is too tired or reluctant to join in, just make it an opportunity for you to read in a relaxed enjoyable way.

READING ALL THE TIME

Take every opportunity to read with your child. A wide variety of books/texts are available from:

- The local library
- Shops in town
- The internet

REMEMBER....

Print is all around us. Even when time is scarce, you can read with your child e.g. signs in the street, labels in the supermarket, the TV page in the newspaper.

ENCOURAGE YOUR CHILD TO READ EVERYTHING!

HELPING YOUR CHILD TO READ A WORD..

- Which letter phonemes do you recognise? Can you blend them together?
- Does the word make sense? Read the sentence again to check
- Is there another word that would make sense?
- Is it a word you know?
- Have you read the word before? Is it on another page?
- Are there any bits of the word that you recognise?
- Miss out the word, say 'mmm', finish the sentence then go back and work out what the word was
- In a rhyming book, think of a word that rhymes
- Use the first 1 or 2 sounds with another strategy

Always go back and read the sentence again!

AS THE CHILD BECOMES A MORE CONFIDENT READER

It is still important to read with your child even when they have become a more confident reader.

CONTINUING TO SUPPORT AND GUIDE YOUR CHILD

Do not worry if your child's reading is not word perfect. If they are making sense of the text, this does not matter e.g. "house" instead of "home", "Good dog, Spot" instead of "Good boy Spot". It would matter, however, if they read: "He got on his house and rode away", as this would have changed the meaning. Always be ready to take over if your child is struggling. With your help they will succeed and will want to read more and more as a result.

WHAT DO I WRITE IN THE READING RECORD?

It is important that the reading record reflects the child's reading patterns. This should be regularly recorded by the child at this stage in their reading development.

Regular comments from the parent, linked to the question below, are also needed to show that the child is extending his/her reading through questioning and interaction with an adult.

The following list is not an exhaustive list but offers suggestions that may be appropriate. It is very important to remember that the enjoyment factor is always worth commenting on. Parents are not expected to comment on each of the following areas after each reading session!

- How enthusiastic is the child about the first choice of book?
- Can the child remember the story so far?
- Is the child using only the pictures for the clues?
- Does your child understand that the words they are reading mean something?
- Can the child read the words out of context e.g. when you point to a word without reading the whole sentence?
- Is the child confident to attempt new words?
- What reading strategies is your child using e.g. sounds, use of the picture, use of the context?
- Can the child follow the text without using a finger or a marker?
- Is there a pattern to the mistakes your child is making e.g. words ending in "ed" or starting in "sh"?
- Does the child recognise mistakes and self correct?
- Is the child recognising many key words?
- Is the child aware of punctuation?
- Is the child reading with expression?
- How long is the child able to sustain reading?

SUPPORTING THE CONFIDENT READER

Confident readers have reached the stage where they no longer wish to read to an adult and want to read silently to themselves. The interaction between the parent and the child changes at this stage. To ensure that the child's reading development continues to move forward, we would encourage parents to question the child about what they were reading, at an appropriate time, to extend their reading and share their enjoyment of the book. The following questions will provide ideas that you can extend to suit individual needs.

Questions to ask....

- What is the title of the book?
- What kind of book is it? (Fiction, non-fiction, poetry, short story etc)
- Who is the author/illustrator?
- Have you read any other books by the same author?
- What made you choose this book? (Author, cover, illustration, recommendation etc)
- Did you read the blurb before selecting the book?
- Could you tell anything about the book before you started reading it? What were the clues?
- Have you read this book before? Why have you chosen it again?

Questions to ask before your child begins or resumes their book...

- What has happened so far?
- What do you think will happen next?
- What are the clues that make you think this?
- How would you like to end the story?
- Are you involved in the story? Why?
- Where is the story set? Is there a description?
- When is the story set? (past, present, future)
- Who are the characters in the story? Who do you like/dislike? Why?
- Do you feel similar to any of the characters? Tell me what is similar?

Questions to ask when your child has finished their book...

- Was the book as you expected?
- Was there anything you disliked about the story?
- At what point to you decide you liked/disliked the story?
- If you have read this book before, did you enjoy it more this time?
- Did you notice anything special about the way language is used in this book? (dialect, descriptive writing etc)
- If you had written this book, how would you have made it better?
- Has anything that happened in this book ever happened to you?
- Can you describe an exciting moment or favourite part of the story?
- Is the story straightforward? Is there more than one story happening at the same time?
- Who was telling the story?
- Was this the most important character in the story?
- Do we get to know the characters quickly or do they build up slowly through the book?
- Was the ending as you expected? Did you like the way the story ended?
- Do you like the illustrations? Do you have a favourite?
- Would you recommend this book to your friends? Tell me what you would say to a friend?

ADVICE IF READING BECOMES A CHALLENGE AT HOME

We would like all of our children to enjoy reading rather than see it as an effort/hard work/something they don't enjoy.

- Try to avoid confrontation
- Offer alternative reading material , e.g. internet access, magazines, non-fiction etc
- Encourage reading at different times of the day or week
- Buy/borrow books on tapes from the local library and then you can listen whilst in the car or before bed
- Share reading activities and interact with the text together
- Share the problem with your child's teacher, we are here to help!
