

Reading comprehension

What does this mean?

It refers to your child's understanding and interpretation of the text that they have read, including:

Understanding 'Why' questions?

Using 'because' to explain

Relating the text to your child's own experiences

Problem solving and prediction, what happened? What will happen next?

Understanding and use of emotion words

When reading with your children, ask them questions which encourage them to think about the above. Examples include:

What is happening?

What just happened?

What is he/she doing? Why?

Where are they?

What might happen next?

How did you know that?

How are they feeling?

What do you think they might say? What would you say? Or do?

Has this ever happened to you? How did you feel?
