

British Values In The Foundation Stage

In the foundation stage we are learning to work together as a team, understand other people's feelings and listen to their ideas.

We are beginning to understand that there are rules in place that help to keep us safe.

We talk about our differences and similarities and are learning to be tolerant.