

Scotts Marking and Feedback Policy

Marking Symbols Reception
Correct	✓
Incorrect	.
Well done, you have worked hard	☺
Almost there, keep practising	☹
You must try harder, practise this at home	☹
Independent work	I
Some supported work	S
Mainly supported work	+S

- Ideally, work should be marked with the child present.
- Green pen should be used for positive comments and red pen for improvements.
- Next steps/challenge must be set regularly in all subjects. This should take the form of 2 Stars and a Wish.
- Children must "traffic light" every piece of work with a green, orange or red coloured spot next to the WALT to show well they feel they achieved the objective.
- Children must be given regular opportunities to respond to teachers' marking. This should either be immediately after marking or in a small 'support' group the following day.

Scotts Marking and Feedback Policy

Marking Symbols KS1/KS2
Correct / I am impressed with this	✓
Incorrect	.
Spelling Error	Sp
This does not make sense	?
New paragraph needed	//
New sentence needed	/
Incorrect case used	(B) (b)
Independent work	I
Supported work	S
Objective achieved (mark next to WALT)	✓✓✓
Objective partly achieved (mark next to WALT)	✓✓
Objective not yet achieved (mark next to WALT)	✓

- All Maths and English work must be marked daily.
- All other subjects must be marked before the next lesson.
- Green pen should be used for positive comments and red pen for improvements.
- Improvement prompts must be given regularly in all subjects. This can take the form of 2 Stars and a Wish.
- 'Next step challenge' should be given in mathematics.
- Detailed next steps must always be given on any extended writing piece.
- Children must "traffic light" every piece of work with a green, orange or red coloured spot next to the WALT to show well they feel they achieved the objective.
- Children must be given regular opportunities to respond to teachers' marking. The expectation is that children and teachers will develop a written dialogue in the books and progress from this will be seen over time.