NUMBER 12

This Week

I regularly collect in some of the children's books so I can monitor the progress they are making. This week I looked at writing across all the year groups and it was fantastic to see how the children's writing has improved since September. All the children are getting to grips with a range of different text types and how well the children have modelled their writing on the text. Please take the opportunity during open morning to look at your children's work and see the progress they have made.

A BIG thank you to everybody who wore their own clothes to school today in return for chocolate for our Christmas Fair. We really appreciate all your support.
