Increasing children's fitness on a daily basis within school.	Mr Whelan said: "It's really important that we encourage children to adopt healthy habits and take exercise from a very early age. We can only do this if we make it fun and accessible to everyone. This scheme does exactly that through the simple act of going for a walk. It gets the children out in the fresh air, gets them moving and sets them up for the rest of the day. When I heard about Woodfield's plan I was happy to get involved. I'm sure it will inspire generations of healthy, happy children."
