| Profile | I have recently finished teaching after a 35 year-career, initially at Wolfreton School, and for the majority of the time at Withernsea High School on the East Coast. There I was head of geography, head of the humanities faculty and director of the humanities college specialism. I now write on-line resource materials for geography teachers and students as well as visiting schools in Yorkshire as a STEM charity representative. The time that remains is spent walking the Yorkshire Wolds and intensively tending a vegetable plot in the garden and on a newly-acquired allotment. |
