Dear parents and carers WELCOME TO DIGITULL!

2017 is a very exciting year for Hull and we want children to be at the heart of what is happening.

As part of Hull UK City of Culture 2017's No Limits learning programme, your school will be using an amazing website called Digitull.

Digitull is a great way for your children to get involved and show off all the amazing work they will create this year! Whether it be poems or blogs, stories, videos, paintings or photographs everything can be shared on Digitull.

Teachers from your child's school have attended training on how to use the Digitull website. Every pupil has been given a password and log in to their own private website where they can upload their own content to Digitull. Teachers will review all work uploaded before approving it to go onto the school Digitull website.

You can use Digitull at home so be sure to upload anything they create that relates to their City of Culture. There will be weekly tasks available to take part in, so whether at home, school or on trips, your children can get involved where ever they are.

Alongside the school's own private Digitull website, Hull Children's University will be controlling the Digitull Explore web page where work from every child and school will be featured for the world to see, so please encourage your child to take part and do their very best work.

Digitull, your school and Hull 2017 will be using Digitull to share children's creativity with the City. These tasks will be shared with teachers and children at the school weekly via email and on the Digitull twitter feed: @digitull2017 as well as through Digitull itself.

You can also follow the Hull 2017 story on Twitter @2017Hull, at Facebook.com/HullCityofCulture or on Instagram @2017Hull. You can find all the latest information about events at Stay connected and be part of the Hull 2017 story on Twitter, Facebook, Instagram, YouTube and Flickr.

Thank You!

From everyone at Digitull

NOTE: Digitull is a Hull Children's University initiative developed with the technical support of Forward Thinker Developments and initial funding from Hull UK City of Culture 2017 Ltd. Schools are each responsible for the moderation of their individual pages and Hull Children's University is responsible for the moderation of all other content. If you do not want your child involved in the project then notify the school directly.
