

Report of the H.M. Inspector

This department continues to do very useful work. The teaching and routine are carefully and methodically directed and supervised. The Head Master receives zealous assistance from the class teachers and all are earnest in their efforts to keep up the credible reputation of the school.

Reading is the subject most open to improvement and the spelling needs care.

The part singing of the highest group is very pleasing and the girls' needlework is well taught. Some useful alterations and additions to the buildings have been completed during the year. The playground should now be taken in hand and put into better condition.
