The principle of inclusion is central to the Special Educational Needs (SEN) policy. The school values the abilities and achievements of all its pupils, promoting maximum development of knowledge, skills and understanding, together with personal and social growth for all. All pupils, including those with SEN and disabilities, have the same entitlement to a broad and balanced curriculum and to participate in all aspects of school life.

All teachers are teachers of every child, including those with SEN. The school recognises the importance of effective partnership with parents and of taking into account the ‘ascertainable views of the child’ in determining how individual educational needs can be met.
Aims

Our aim is to raise the aspirations and expectations of all pupils with SEN, with a clear focus on outcomes for pupils.

Objectives of the SEN Policy:

- To identify and provide for pupils who have SEN.
- To work within the guidance provided in the SEND Code of Practice, 2014.
- To foster an educational environment in which high expectations are set for all pupils, including those with SEN.
- To ensure that pupils with SEN make good or better progress.
- To provide a framework within which the school can assess, plan, deliver and review its provision for pupils with SEN.
- To provide support and advice for all staff working with SEN pupils.

Types of Special Educational Need

There are four main areas of special educational need:

- Communication and interaction - difficulty in communicating with others, including children with Autistic Spectrum Disorder (ASD) and Asperger’s Syndrome, who may have difficulties with social interaction, language, communication and imagination.
- Cognition and learning - where children may learn at a slower pace than their peers. Children may also have a Specific Learning Difficulty (SpLD) such as dyslexia, dyscalculia or dyspraxia.
- Social, emotional and mental health difficulties - children may display challenging, disruptive or disturbing behaviour which may reflect underlying social, emotional and mental health issues. The school will seek to recognise and identify these underlying issues through our knowledge of the child. Other children may have disorders such as attention deficit disorder, attention deficit hyperactive disorder (ADHD) or attachment disorder.
- Sensory and/or physical needs - where children have a disability which prevents them from making use of the educational facilities generally provided and includes children with visual impairment, hearing impairment or a multi-sensory impairment.
They require specialist support and/or equipment to enable them to access learning and all the opportunities that are available to their peers.

Identifying Special Educational Needs

‘A pupil has SEN where their learning difficulty or disability calls for special educational provision that is different from or additional to that normally available to pupils of the same age.’ (SEND Code of Practice, 2014)

Pupils are only identified as SEN if they do not make adequate progress once they have had intervention/adjustments and Quality First Teaching. The purpose of identification is to work out what action the school needs to take to support the child. The school identifies the needs of pupils by considering the needs of the whole child, not just the special educational needs.

Assessment is a continual process that can identify pupils who may have special educational needs.

We measure pupils’ progress through:

- The use of tracking data to track pupil progress
- The use of school agreed assessments
- The use of standardised assessments
- Discussions among staff in departmental and pupil progress meetings
- Discussions between the class teacher and SENCo team
- The results of National Curriculum Tests
- Liaison and consultation with outside agencies
- Assessments carried out by outside agencies

The teacher and SENCo team consider all the information about the pupil’s progress, as well as national data and expectations of progress. This includes accurate assessment using standardised tests and early assessment materials. This information is then used to decide whether special educational provision is needed. The school may also ask for more specialised assessments from external agencies and professionals. If pupils are identified as having SEN they are placed on the Special Needs register at SEN Support.
If a child continues to show significant cause for concern, the Educational Psychology service will be involved and asked for advice. A request for statutory assessment may be made to the Local Authority and a range of written evidence about the child will support the request. The Local Authority will then decide whether to carry out a formal assessment of the pupil and will then decide if an Education, Health and Care Plan (EHCP) is needed to enable the child to make progress and access learning. Parents will be consulted and asked for their views throughout the assessment process.

Graduated Approach
Where a pupil is identified as having SEN, the support takes the form of a five-part cycle. This is known as the graduated approach and supports the pupil in making good progress.

- Monitor – monitor the child to see what areas of strengths and weaknesses there are. Use of standardised tests and teacher assessments to find out where the child is and what difficulties they may have.

- Evaluate – what has been found out from the monitoring? Are there any concerns for the child?

- Diagnose – if there is cause for concern, what areas need to be worked on? The teacher and SENCo team agree what interventions/support should be put in place, in consultation with parents.

- Improve – has the intervention improved the concerning area of need? Teachers, with the support of the SENCo team, work with classroom assistants to plan and assess the impact of support/interventions.
Consolidate – how will this intervention be consolidated in practice? The effectiveness of the support/interventions and their impact on the pupil’s progress is used daily in lessons.

Provision for pupils with SEN
Teachers are responsible and accountable for the progress of the pupils in their class, including those on the SEN register or where pupils have support from teaching assistants or specialist staff.

The first step for pupils who may have SEN is differentiated, high first quality teaching. The school regularly and carefully reviews the quality of teaching for all pupils, including those at risk of underachievement.

All children have an entitlement to a broad and balanced curriculum. Children with SEN are fully included in whole class and cross-curricular activities, which are differentiated to meet their needs and reasonable adjustments are made to ensure that they are included. (Equality Act 2010)

A variety of strategies and approaches are used and differentiation may be by task, by outcome, or by the different levels of support offered to the children. We support children in a manner that acknowledges their entitlement to share the same learning experiences as their peers.

Provision is used to:
- promote inclusive practice across the curriculum for all pupils with SEN, including differentiation;
- provide a range of support and adjustments for pupil’s dependent upon level and complexity of need; (This may include in class, small group, subject focussed or intensive individual and highly personalised work). (Equality Act 2010)

Children may be withdrawn by support staff or the class teacher, for small group or one-to-one interventions, in order to accelerate their progress. Children may also be withdrawn for assessment activities carried out by the SENCo team or outside agencies. The SENCo team also keeps a record of all children on the SEN register and meets with staff to plan support and provision for every child. The SENCo team also records the provision for each child on a provision map. An Individual Education Plan is drawn up for each child on SEN support or with an Education, Health and Care Plan.

The SENCo team meets each term, with the class teacher to review IEP’s and provision.

They consider:
- Have the desired outcomes been achieved?
- Has the intervention/support been effective?

The Head Teacher holds regular pupil progress meetings with class teachers at which they discuss the progress of every child, including those on the SEN register. If a pupil has an Education, Health and Care Plan, a review meeting is held at least annually with representatives from everyone involved with the child being invited, including parents and a representative from the Local Authority. The child may also attend the meeting to give their views. Additional, specialist support may be provided by SEND services who give advice and carry out more detailed assessment if requested by the SENCo team, after discussion with parents. The Hearing Impairment Service and Visual Impairment Service also give support to pupils with a hearing or visual difficulty.

Support for Pupils and Families
If parents need more information about what is available for pupils with SEN, this can be found on the Stoke-on-Trent website, where there are details of the authority’s local offer. More information on what the school offers, can be found on the school SEN Information Report.

Supporting pupils with medical conditions
The school recognises that pupils at school with medical conditions should be properly supported so that they have full access to education, including school trips and physical education. Some children may be disabled and where this is the case the school will comply with its duties under the Equality Act 2010.

If a pupil has an Education, Health and Care plan, which brings together health and social care needs as well as special educational provision, the school follows the SEND Code of Practice (2014).

Admissions
When admitting a child with special educational needs the following arrangements can be made where pertinent to the child to form a package of support:
The SENCO or someone from the Senior Leadership Team will meet with the parents and child prior to starting. We will discuss the needs of the child and how we can meet them and any concerns or queries the parents/carers may have.

- A ‘transition into school’ timetable to be drawn up that helps the child to settle into school life
- Meet with class teacher
- Support materials sent home e.g. photographs of the school, adults that the child may spend time with, different parts of the school day e.g. assembly, PE.
- Arrange a review meeting for 6 weeks after start date to discuss how the child is doing, changes to be made, progress etc. Re-adjust measurements to meet needs if applicable

Transition

If a child with SEN changes school, the SENCo team makes appropriate contact with the receiving school to ensure the transfer of information about the child.

As pupils on the SEN register progress to high school the SENCo will liaise with the various receiving schools. This will include inviting the SENCo from the high school to Y5 and Y6 Annual Reviews and arranging visits for pupils and parents to prospective schools.

Monitoring and Evaluation

Pupil progress is monitored, evaluated and reviewed on a regular basis by class teachers and by Senior Management, including the Head Teacher and Deputy Head Teacher and also by the SENCo team. Progress and any concerns are discussed with parents and with pupils themselves. Outcomes of interventions are monitored and evaluated by the SENCo and Senior Management each half term. The school’s evaluation and monitoring arrangements promote an active process of continual review and improvement of provision for all pupils.

Partnership with Parents and Carers

This school values its good relations with parents and carers. The principle of an active partnership extends to all aspects of the work with children and young people with SEN. If parents are concerned about their child’s progress in school they should first discuss their concerns with the class teacher, then a further meeting may be arranged with the SENCo. Following this meeting, the Head Teacher and the governing body may then be involved as necessary. If parents have a major complaint, then they should contact the Head Teacher immediately.

If we are concerned that a child is not making progress, then parents will be invited into school to meet with the class teacher and the SENCo to discuss the child’s strengths and difficulties and to decide on appropriate provision for the child.
