Newsletter No.50: 9th February 2018

Dear Parents and Friends

We've reached the end of a very short half term in what seems like no time at all but if we thought spring was on its way winter has certainly sent us a reminder that it's got some way to go yet! The children loved the snow that fell building snowmen and making snow angels. Well done to everyone who got their children into school and I'm glad those of you who were cut off have managed to get yourselves out! I did say in the last newsletter that I hoped by now I'd be fully recovered and would know what's wrong with me, well I still don't know what's wrong with me but I feel fine so I'm back, I missed teaching the children and was fed up of sitting in the office!

Mr G will be back in the new half term after his traumas so the staff will once again be complete. We owe a massive thanks to Mrs Sisson who has done a brilliant job in Class One. After keeping things running smoothly and the standards high, she can now have a well-deserved week or two off before addition number three arrives in the Sisson household!

Bright Stars

The Bright Stars team are well underway with their fundraising efforts. They now have a newsletter up and running, cars are being washed and as you will see below they have organised an amazing talent show. Make sure you get a copy of their newsletter to find out about all the upcoming events.

Ennerdale's Got Talent

Well we certainly have it turns out. Thursday afternoon saw an impressive array of the best acts currently on offer. We had singers, magicians, comedians, musicians and dancers. Everyone was a winner (except one dodgy dancer maybe!) and when the votes were counted the overall champion for 2018 was Edward with his stand-up comedy routine. This was a brilliant afternoon of entertaining fun and raised £105 towards the Bright Stars fund.

The Egyptians at Tullie House

Class Two spent a day at Tullie House finding out a bit more about the Ancient Egyptians. They carried out a range of activities which included identifying old pottery, using hieroglyphics to send coded messages, studying face masks and learning how to mummify someone! They had a great time and their knowledge of the Egyptians is now greatly enhanced.

New Mission Statement

Mrs Eyre from the diocese advisory team who I'm sure is well known to many of you from her time as executive head here spent an afternoon with the children working on a new mission statement for the school. The idea was that the children would come up with something that they felt encapsulated the school the way they see. After a lot of hard work they came up with "We are a unique school where we listen, love, care and share". I think they have done a great job of summing the school up, Mrs Eyre was equally impressed and also commented on how well the children worked together to fulfil their objective, well done, I'm proud of you all.

I hope you all have a lovely week off whatever you may be doing, enjoy yourselves and come back refreshed and ready for another great half term.

Best wishes

D Moore
