

“A Loving School”

Love is patient, love is kind.

It is not jealous,

It does not boast or show off.

It does not speak badly of others,

It is not selfish, it is not angry

It does not look for revenge.

Love does not enjoy doing the wrong thing but is honest.

It always protects, always trusts,

Always hopes, always makes its best effort.

Love never fails.

Bransgore C of E Primary School.

We are Proud to be a “Loving School”

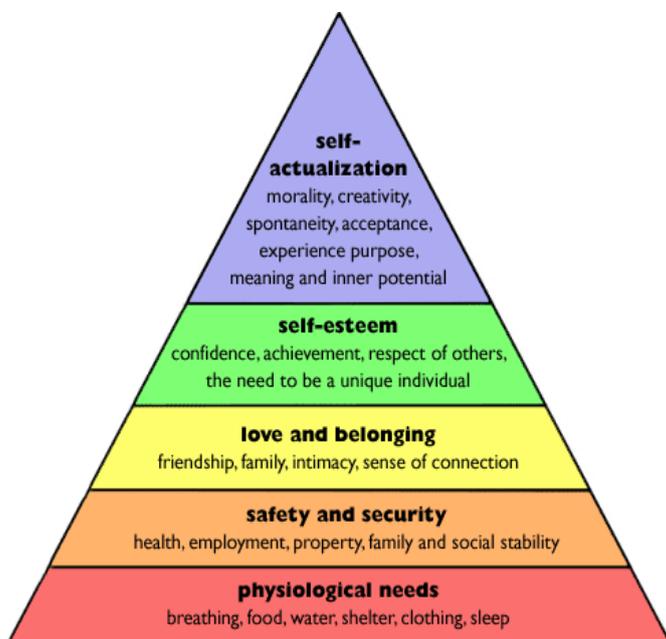

Our mission statement says we aim to:

“Help every person recognise and celebrate their uniqueness as a miraculous creation of a loving God.”

We considered all the different values that we cherish and work to promote every day in our school. The more we thought about it, the more we realised that we can express our vision, our mission and our beliefs in one all-encompassing value; Love.

This document sets out to clarify how Bransgore defines itself as a Loving School and how we express our love for ourselves, our community and our world in the way we conduct ourselves, relate to each other and live our lives within and beyond our school community every day.

Love is fundamental to the development and growth of every single person whatever your age.

- Maslow suggests that our fundamental needs are breathing, shelter clothing and sleep
- After this comes security; feeling safe.
- The next need is to feel loved and to experience a sense of belonging.

Without this need being met our self-esteem cannot grow and we cannot recognise ourselves as lovable or unique. We cannot move on to self-actualization, the top of the pyramid, the “fulfilling our potential” we hear so much about in schools.

The bridge between our basic survival needs and growing and flourishing as a person in our own right developing our skills, talents and ideas is dependent upon our sense of feeling loved and belonging.

As a Church of England school we follow the example of Christ who distilled down into the most potent form his instruction about how we should live our lives and exist in community together:

John 13:34-35

³⁴ “A new command I give to you: Love one another as I have loved you, so you must love one another. ³⁵ By this everyone will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another.”

When we talk of being a “Loving School” this should not suggest a place without challenge. Rather, if we fundamentally believe that every person is worthy of love and should love others, then we should expect the very best of them and of ourselves because we, and they, are worthy of the effort required to excel through challenge and support.

This means that by acknowledging the miracle and intrinsic worth of each person, we, as a community, will strive to make each and every one of us the best we can be simply because we are worthy of the effort. We were created in love and deserve to be loved.

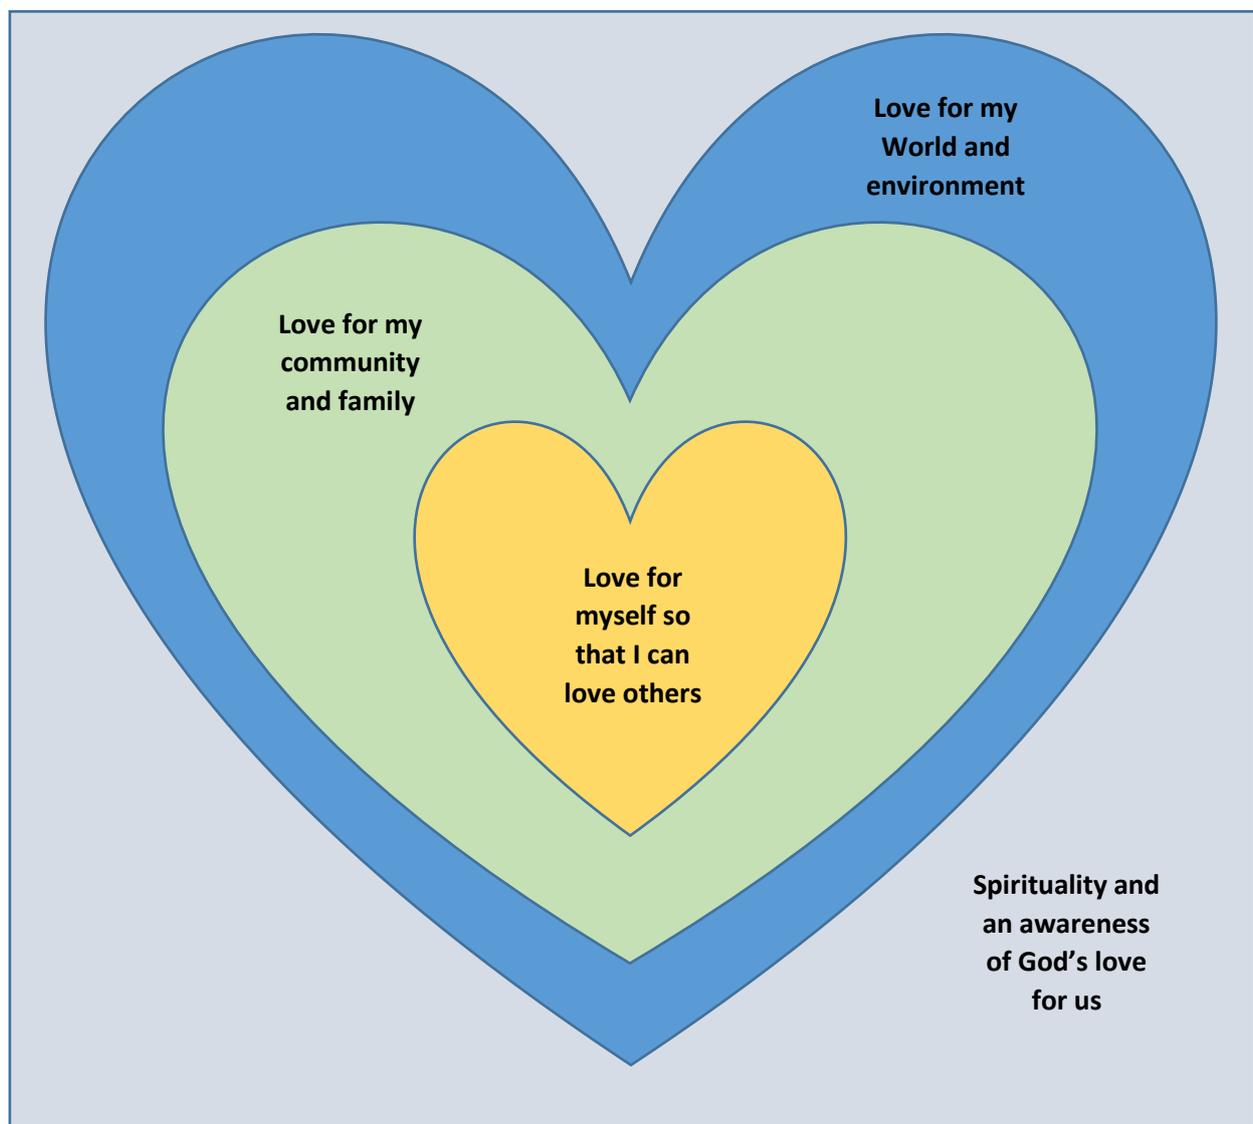

We believe that by defining ourselves as a “Loving School” and by identifying how we live this out in our daily life in school we are supporting the Church of England’s vision for education of:

- Educating for Wisdom Knowledge and Skills
- Educating for Hope and Aspiration
- Educating for Community and Living Well Together
- Educating for Dignity and Respect

We believe that we can express how we develop each other within our “Loving School” with a concentric circles model:

How do we demonstrate being a “Loving School” in a practical sense?

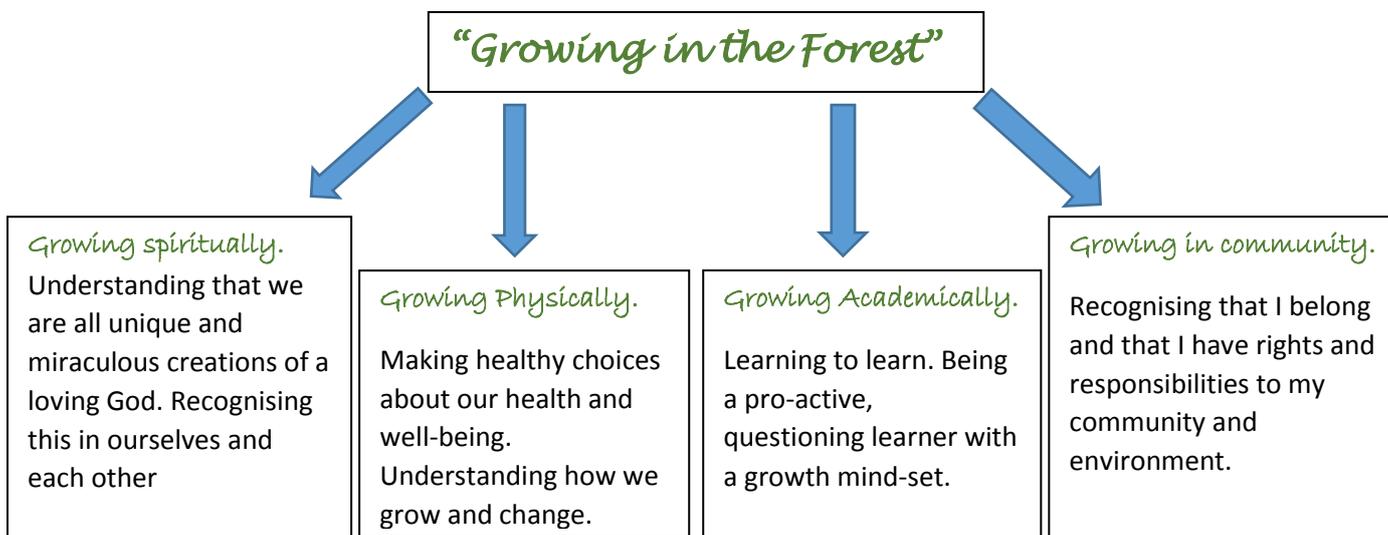

The following table gives examples of how we live out our vision, mission and value as a Loving School every day in our effort, attitude and interactions with each other and those around us and in the wider world.

Our Vision statement is:

"Growing in the Forest"

When staff discussed our vision statement, we wanted something that described us as a school, what we aspire to be and to reflect our enviable learning environment with so much opportunity for outdoor and experiential learning.

We considered the type of learners we wanted to send on to secondary school. If we were to get this approach right we needed to ask pupils, parents, governors and staff the characteristics and values we would like our children to display by the time they leave us.

Everyone chose up to twelve words.

These words were then fed into a word cloud creator which made the most frequently chosen words appear bigger. This word cloud describes the type of pupils we wish to develop at Bransgore school. It is displayed in every learning space as a reminder to staff and pupils of what we are aiming for as we work together day to day.

Our school badge was created through a competition open to parents, pupils and the community. The badge recognises our unique location between the sea and the forest. The Bransgore Lilly from our original badge is retained but is symbolised as still growing as opposed to being a cut stem. The coloured ring enclosing the water is also growing and this represents our four house colours that make up our school. The colours also acknowledge the diversity of our school community and wider world. The imagery of water, growth and community fit with our loving school value. The badge is worn by each individual school pupil. It is the symbol that whilst we are all unique and miraculously different, we belong together. We are loved for who we are and the contribution we make to the greater whole.

To develop pupils with these characteristics, attitudes and values, we must move them beyond simply passive attendance at school and bring them, through love, challenge and support, to "active participation" recognising that education is a gift to each and every one of us and that we are all worthy of our best effort because our uniqueness and diversity is something to treasure, respect and celebrate. We cannot all be the best but we can all be our best. We must bridge the gap between simply existing and self-actualisation and "thriving" by being a "Loving School".
