RSE Workshop

Dear Parents,

As a school we pride ourselves in our academic success, we know how important it is for our pupils to leave Thursfield with high levels of achievement which will further enhance their educational journey into the high school. However we also place real value on helping our pupils to build their confidence and self-esteem and to manage their feelings, to understand our differences and treat each other with respect. This work is absolutely crucial in helping our children develop healthy relationships for now and in the future.

Over the next few months we are hoping to further develop our RSE (Relationship and Sex Education) Curriculum, to help our children understand the social and physical aspects of growing up. The most effective SRE needs to start early so that children are prepared for the changes they will experience in the years ahead. The Department for Education has indicated that schools have a statutory requirement to provide SRE from Reception to Year 6 as and when this is relevant. Your child will probably have covered many of the topics either in science or PSHE without you realising.

Having spent considerable time looking into a variety of resources we are hoping to use an online resource called 'Growing up with Yasmine and Tom', which is both interactive and relevant to the needs of our children.

We will be holding an informal drop in workshop on Thursday 8th March at 6pm, if you would like to look at the resource. As always we appreciate your input and support on these more sensitive matters.

Yours sincerely,

E Bradbury
