

Friday 4th May 2018

LO: I can write an exiting narrative based on the attack on Hoth in Star Wars (focus: relative clauses and a use of subordinating conjunctions)

relative
YR/5/6
Sub conj

Deep down in the mist the <sup>determined</sup> Rebels could see a familiar shape but couldn't recognise it fully yet. Suddenly, loud foot steps from <sup>aggressive</sup> machines came crashing in like crazy destroying the <sup>Rebels</sup> land that had been hidden away for years! The AT-ATs caused a disasterous distruction. That was enough for the Rebels, who were ready to fight, so they jumped into snow speeders getting ready to approach a disaster just waiting outside.

As fast as a <sup>cheetah</sup> ~~cheetah~~, team members of the rebels shot outside hearing massive explosions and things falling down at rapid speed!

"Alright boys!" Instructed ~~huck~~ Luke
"Sack, go for it's legs!" demanded Luke <sup>while</sup> rocking about in his uncomfortable snow speeder, which made him have many bruises...

<sup>Even though</sup> Sack was very calm, he can very professional and aggressive.

◇ lots of good advanced vocabulary
◇ Good inclusion of relative clauses

◇ Try to add some brackets for a little extra detail.