

Friday 14th May 2018

* 1/5/6

Spellings

* simile

relative clause

subor

climatic

conjunction

from

- = 6
- = 1
- = 5

ho: I can write an exciting narrative based on the other on with in stories (puns: relative clauses and use of subordinating conjunctions)

Out in the distance, there were some grey dots they get closer we can see that they are AT, AT's they are massive vehicles which are as tall as the giggle tower than someone communicates back to house: "ugh can we have the rebel pilots please?" Sudden the snow spiders came shooting out!

As they start shooting the snow spiders were determined to get the AT, AT's down; meanwhile, underground everyone was rushing to safety and getting all there equipment for leaving. Although every so often, they would have to stop because of all the rumbling from outside.

The snow spiders were trying to blast the AT-AT's down

"It's too strong for blasters radius little we need to do a cable. So rig up 3 goes round and round "detach cable now!" shouts Luke. "BANG!" Luke co-pilot Zach has been hit. "Oh No!" Zach. Zach as he shouts Luke gets blasted. "my control systems are down. I've been hit."

dropping snow he has blasted himself everywhere he gets out and turns to Zach. However, Siddo in AT, AT's foot comes shooting down but just in time Luke gets a blaster and rolls out. Horror Zach is crashed down to the under world!

dropping

temperature

the AT-AT's

the AT-AT's

the AT-AT's

the AT-AT's

the AT-AT's

the AT-AT's

the AT-AT's

the AT-AT's

the AT-AT's

the AT-AT's

the AT-AT's

the AT-AT's

the AT-AT's

the AT-AT's

the AT-AT's