On the whole yes, recently there have been a few concerns raised in relation to his level of integration into play. We would like to hear what strategies are in place to help him develop confidence in respect of this. We have no concerns about his social skills nor academic attainment, however understand that the school has been vigilant in discussing the concerns they have. This is good, however further communication regarding differentiation and play strategies, would have put our minds at rest. Our main priority is the happiness of our child.

Although I don't actually agree with homework.

I believe any homework until secondary school is inappropriate.

I'm not a fan of homework, especially at primary. They aren't over homeworked though, hope that makes sense.

Not had to deal with bullying so far.

Instances we've experienced have been dealt with really well, either by or to my children. I've been kept well informed so I can work on these issues at home too.

Child has not been bullied

Absolutely

Strength - friendly atmosphere and open door policy makes it feel welcoming. Staff are approachable and know the students well. Strong sense of belonging for students. Communication between school and parents seems to have improved considerably since I last complete one of these, so well done and thank you!

Very well managed, excellent teachers and TA's. My children are very happy here. A brilliant little school!

The school is fantastic. We have no real concerns we are just mainly concerned with how happy our child is. Keep up the good work!

Deal with bullying more effectively.

Every child's individual needs are met without question. From two very happy children and parents. Staff go above and beyond their call of duty we are very lucky to have and exceptional provision right on our doorstep.

Strengths: Talented and engaging teaching and TA staff. Well managed admin. Always seeking to enrich learning. Open to communication and ideas, Mrs C in particular. The children enjoy learning. Could improve: Better advance notice of big events, ie summer show for parents, only as we need to plan work to be available. But understand it's not always possible.

Every child is known by all the teachers. The children have a warm welcome at the gate every morning.

I feel strengths include: Responding to children as individuals with individual needs. Weeks such as art week and the Easter competitions, Harvest craft days etc make the school unique. School has a good family ethos with children of different ages supporting each other. Opportunities to take part in out of school events such as life skills, Exeter University days, sports events, Exmoor Challenge, High School performances etc

I feel the school's main strength lies within its community. The support network of parents and teachers is just brilliant
