

In November 2013 Kilburn Park School was judged as requiring improvement. A very effective partnership with Byron Court for the past 18 months focused on developing leadership capacity, observing outstanding teaching and learning practice and improving marking and feedback. Our recent Ofsted inspection speaks for itself:

“Effectiveness of leadership and management is outstanding”

“Leaders have developed a rigorous system for checking the quality of teaching, drawing on a wide range of evidence to provide clear guidance for individual teachers on how they can improve further”

“Teachers give children strong guidance on how to check their work and those of their peers”

Laurence Keel
Headteacher (April 2016)

We are so grateful for the BTSA coming into our school and creating a bespoke action plan based on our schools particular needs. They were able to give us invaluable advice and resources, we feel really confident in the way forward in supporting EAL at our school.

North West London Jewish Day School: 2016

Malorees Juniors – Ofsted Report 2017

Summary of key findings for parents and pupils

“Working closely with the teaching alliance has been significant in improving teaching across the school. “

Information about the school

“The school has been working with support for teaching from a local teaching school alliance based at Byron Court Primary School, and for mathematics from Kingsbury Green School. “