 The caveat

The language we hear from Ofsted is of 'promoting fundamental British values' and of young people 'accepting', 'respecting' and 'tolerating' – as though we all agree already on what those values mean, accept that they are unique to Britain and believe we should follow them unquestionably.

At Wells Hall we think education is about helping people understand how things work and how to challenge and change them for the better.

Values won't be assumed because school demand they are, particularly if they maybe different from those at home. They have to be arrived at through mutual exploration and understanding.

P4C offers an opportunity to do this through the enquiry process.
