Author Visit

Dear parents and carers,

We have been offered the chance of a free workshop from the author of the Alfie Jones stories, David Fuller. He will spend 40 minutes or so with each KS2 class and this will involve:

Discussing memories of his own writing experiences from his school days (he has slight dyspraxia so found it fairly difficult), and his journey to eventually becoming an author. He also talks about his books and explains why he has decided to write the types of books that he has. There is also an opportunity for the children to get involved in a role-playing activity, acting out a chapter as David reads it. The last 10 minutes or so of the session are set aside for them to ask him questions. The sessions are designed to be inspirational to all.

This will take place in school time on the morning of 5 October. If your child would like to pre-order a book from the Alfie Jones series, a form is attached and we would ask that the form and the money are brought in on Friday 5th October and handed to the class teacher for safe-keeping until the end of the talk when they will receive their book. Please note there is no obligation at all to purchase a book, this is simply an opportunity to have a signed book if you would like one.

Yours faithfully,

Mrs Palmer (Literacy co-ordinator)
