

This term in Design Technology we have been designing and creating boats. We investigated the water resistance of different materials and its effectiveness. We then used this to construct and test our boats to see which ones reached our success criteria (Did it float? Were the materials water resistant? Was it fast? Did it balance?).

