At Minety the main barriers to achievement are the barriers to finding interests and talents and being able to afford the extra-curricular opportunities that feed into academic achievement. Alongside of this, if there is an area of academic weakness, parents due to pressures within the home setting, are not able to support the child or instil confidence to persevere and overcome difficulties.

The reasons for the funding being focussed on children being able to access all opportunities open to all of our children is that enrichment builds motivation, access to opportunity and a determination to succeed.

Along with this is a clear focus on any areas of difficulty within a curriculum and the chance to be supported to overcome this difficulty.

As numbers within the school are very small progress of this cohort are internally tracked very carefully and kept within school. Results are tracked termly and reported to governors on a termly basis with an annual review on overall results for this cohort.
