Reading at Home

Reading is a vital part of the children's education and it is expected that they read at least three times a week, whether that is to an adult or by themselves. Reading certificates will be awarded in celebration assemblies for the number of times the children have read and to monitor this the children or adults will need to record this in their reading record, numbering each entry: 50 entries – bronze reading award, 100 entries – silver reading award, 150 entries – gold reading award.

Our reading comprehension focus this half term is to use a non-fiction text to find out information, focussing on the subject specific vocabulary, how the text is organised and the use of paragraphs, headings and sub-headings. It would be brilliant if you could support your children with this skill at home and I have listed some questions you can use below. Please comment on your child's response to these questions or note any comments that they have made, when writing in their reading record.

Key questions for word focus:

- What subject specific vocabulary can you find?
- What does it mean?
- Why is this text laid out like this?
- Why are paragraphs used?
- What have you learned from the text?
- Do you prefer fiction (story) or non-fiction (factual) texts? Why?
- Can you find the headings and sub-headings? Why are they there?

Homework

Spellings and Mental Maths (including times tables)

Spellings and mental maths activities need to be complete every day at home. Books will be checked every morning by the children and dragon points will be awarded to those who do this. Children will be tested every Thursday and new homework will also be given out on Friday. If the children do not get all of their mental maths questions right, then they will remain on that same skill until they do so. Homework will be differentiated to meet the needs of each child.

- Spellings – children will practise their spellings every night using the look, say, cover, write, check technique. Children will receive the same spellings for two weeks to promote depth. In the second week, children can challenge themselves to write their spelling words in sentences.
- Mental Magicians (including times tables) – children will have a ‘menu of activities’ to choose from including creating posters, playing relevant games online and writing them out of order. Although there is no prescription over which activity the child chooses, it is encouraged that children practise using a range of methods.
- Take home task – over the course of the half term, the children must complete one of the activities from the grid. These activities will be shared and celebrated at the end of half-term show case. Dragon points will be awarded for these pieces of work.
- Handwriting – children are working exceptionally hard in class to improve their joined handwriting, in order to work on this at home please be reminded that you and your child have free access to our handwriting website: <https://www.letterjoin.co.uk>. The username is ak3814 and the password is home.

And finally, please remember that your role in your child’s education is crucial. If you would like more information, or would like to become more involved in school (e.g. as a reader or as a helper on a school trip), or if you have any artefacts or resources to offer the school, it is always greatly appreciated.

Kind regards

Mrs Danielle Williams
