

As Historians we might:

Research the events leading up to the Gunpowder Plot and the important reason we remember the 5th of November
Look into events beyond living memory and how they affect the children nationally or globally.
(Remembrance Day)

As Athletes we might:

Discover about the football match that occurred during WW1 on Christmas day.

Due in by: 5th December 2018

As Designers we might:

Design a new poppy that could be used for an art show. (E.g. Blood Swept Lands and Seas of Red Art installation at Tower of London)

Designed by Paul Cummins, Tom Piper
Research artists like Van Gogh, Monet and Andy Warhol and make a presentation on their work with poppies.

Why do we remember?

As Geographers we might:

Research the countries that were involved in the WW1 and the sides they were linked with. Colour these on a map.

As Scientists we might:

Look at different sources of light natural and manmade.

Discover where fireworks fit within this list.

Choose something from this list or be creative with your own ideas about Gunpowder Plot/ Remembrance Day and WW1

As Readers we might:

Read about a significant individual from the gunpowder plot. Make a fact file about their involvement in the events.

As Musicians we might:

Learn and perform a song from 100 years ago.

As Mathematicians we might:

Make a timeline of significant events during Gunpowder Plot.

As ICT technicians we might:

Make a firework picture using the computer or Purple Mash.

As Writers we might:

Write a diary entry of a soldier during WW1.
Write a poem of the war from the point of view of someone else who was involved in the war.

As Artists we might:

Create a picture of a poppy using a variety of materials.
Create an emblem for peace or remembrance.
