Dear Parents

I have been alerted to a worrying 'pop up' on You Tube called MoMo that a lot of children have seen and/or are aware of. There seems to be a strange female looking character with large eyes who tells children to self harm and how to do it. 'She' might also be telling children that their families will be harmed if they say anything about it.

As always we would be advising that children should not be having unsupervised access to the internet and not using any social media sites under the specified age of 13.

Keeping our children safe on line is becoming more and more of a challenge but by working together I am confident that we can.

Yours sincerely

Martine Buckley
