BOOK FORTNIGHT SPECIAL

We have had a fantastic time over the last two weeks with all the different events for Book week (but actually book fortnight). We started with five authors visiting some of our classes. This created a real buzz with many children inspired by meeting a real life author. We also had the book fair which was attended by many parents and children. This week we have had a special book week assembly with a personal message to the children of Grange from no other than David Walliams, yes, the real David Walliams! On various occasions we have held flash mob reading, which means that at certain times, all the children stop what they are doing and read a book. It was amazing to see all the children at playtime, stopping, sitting down and enjoying reading.

Throughout this week so many parents and adults have come to read with the children at various times. On Thursday each teacher swapped classes and read their favourite story to a different class. Also on Thursday, Penguin books visited the school to work with our Year 4 children.

The final event was our inaugural book parade on the MUGA, attended by hundreds of parents. It was so pleasing to see how many children had made an effort with their costumes– and enjoyed showing them off. Special mention must go to Max in Year 6 who arrived as a fully grown dinosaur!

Thank you to Miss Mears who organised the events, to the PTA who provided refreshments at many of the events and to all the parents and children who joined in so enthusiastically. It’s been a fabulous two weeks.
