

“New kid on the block”

- 1. We open on a quiet street as a few kids are playing 3-on-3 game*
- 2. One of the kids stops mid-play as he signals to his friends that he has to go home.*
- 3. The others are visibly surprised - leaving them short a player in the middle of a game.*
- 4. As the players stand around they notice a moving truck parked in front of one of the houses on the street.*
- 5. They see a boy about their age carrying a box of comics into the house.*
- 6. They exchange a look and two of the kids grab an extra stick and go over to see if the “new kid” wants to join.*
- 7. The new kid/boy comes back outside, the 2 street hockey kids approach him.*
- 8. His mom is nearby and encourages him to go. The boy though gets visibly nervous. He quickly shakes his head ‘no.’*
- 9. The players look at each other once again with a “What now?” expression.*
- 10. Suddenly, the boy’s younger sister comes out of the house and approaches the players looking eager to join in.*
- 11. They glance back at each other and then nod as if to say “ok, guess that will work.”*
- 12. They hand her the stick and she excitedly takes it and runs over to play with them.*
- 13. We cut to see everybody re-engaged in game and the girl ends up scoring a goal.*
- 14. All the players celebrate with her as she beams with joy.*
- 15. We cut back to see her older brother watching intently/joyfully from the porch.*

SUPERS:

JOY

REVEALED - transforms to

REVEAL

The Power of Emotion in Motion.

Required locations:

Established Residential street, ideally with mature trees, interesting houses. Bonus cul-de-sac, or street adjacent to park or school with asphalt pad.