PLOT

Bernadette works tirelessly to a public scientific paper that takes down the local oil and gas industry. However, she suspects that she is being followed by a man (Rex) who has been employed to eliminate her to keep the plant operating. Bernadette devolves into a complete state of paranoia and stress. She goes to a psychiatrist (Andrew) for help. Andrew writes her off with a mental disorder – just another crazy female scientist. With no one to trust and no one believing in her, Bernadette must complete her work, even if it kills her. Hopefully she can earn Andrew's support if something happens...

BERNADETTE – 25-30 FEMALE

Bernadette is a Nuclear Physicist. She loves fishing by the lake, but the local energy company has ruined her refuge. Despite her dwindling sanity, she works day and night to publish a paper that will eliminate their polluting ways. Bernadette is in physical and emotional crisis. Struggling to make sure her work isn't lost like, everything else in her life, Bernadette realizes she can only trust herself. She is tired, isolated, and scared.

ANDREW – 40-50 MALE

Andrew is a psychiatrist who does not care about his job or his patients as much as he should. He is smart and very privileged. He doesn't need to help his patients beyond his job description and he takes advantage of this. However, Andrew is a man that sees opportunity in people and crisis, and Bernadette has information that is beyond him.

REX – 35-45 MALE

Rex may be a figment of Bernadette's imagination or a real spy. He might be a hired agent by Newton Oil or a demonstration of Bernadette's anxieties. He represents all the paranoia and significance of what Bernadette is doing. His presence must always be felt even when not seen.

JESSICA - 20-30 FEMALE

Jessica is an employee of Andrews as his assistant. She enjoys her job as it is not too complex. She is witty and aware of the needs of her patients.
