

Short Synopsis

Steven and Amy reconnect after spending 10 years apart. The reason they have this chance is because Amy's mom has died, giving her the opportunity to contact Steven. Steven simply believes that now that Amy's mom is out of the picture, they can go back to being friends. Little does he know that Amy couldn't contact him for all these years because she knows a dark secret about his mom. Amy tells him the awful truth of how her mom killed Steven's mom out of jealousy. Steven and Amy had been friends for many years. However, when Steven's mom, Jenn, was alive, she and Amy got along very well, which was something that Amy's mom couldn't stand. Amy's mom didn't get along with her and usually put her down. She was always disappointed in her and was never supportive. Steven would see that and would stand up for Amy once in a while, but as Amy didn't like confrontation and so asked him not to. When Amy found out the awful truth about what her mom had done, she was forbidden to contact Steven because her mom was afraid of going to jail for murder. She also paid someone to disrupt Steven's sleep so that he would never figure out what had happened on his own.
