

THE CLOCK TOWER

BY ERIK KESSELS

ONCE YOUR TIME IS UP,
ALL THE CLOCKS GO OFF

In The Clock Tower it's all a matter of time. In this vibrant space you don't find yellow post-its on the wall. All walls (and the ceiling) are covered in a collection of clocks. The creative brain behind this room is Erik Kessels. Dutch artist, designer and founder of advertising agency KesselsKramer. While creating this space, he didn't start with a blueprint of the Clock Tower, but with an idea.

An office for a day that evolves around the concept of time. Where anything can happen: a day full of elevator pitches, a coaching session or use it as VIP lounge. The office consists of two floors and is located in the original clock tower. You can rent it for as long as you want, as long as you keep in mind that every passing hour, the clocks chime once more. Once your time is up, all of them go off, resulting in a cacophony. Curious how to stop this sound? You will understand when you're there (spoiler: it's something with a big red button).
