Eindhoven: technology, design, knowledge

Eindhoven is a young, modern and dynamic city. The city has developed itself into one of Europe's leading cities in technology, design and knowledge.

Since the Philips family opened its first factory in Eindhoven late 19th century, technology has been important to the local community. GLOW Eindhoven, a yearly event taking place in November focuses on light art, which shows the pride the city takes from its history. More recently, high tech company ASML was established near Eindhoven. Furthermore, at the edge of town, High Tech Campus Eindhoven is known to be 'the smartest square kilometre in the Netherlands' which secures a leading position in technology for the 21st century.

The city's Design Academy has an international reputation for being one of the best in Europe. The Dutch Design Week, an event yearly taking place in October, showcases design in all shapes and attracts over 300.000 unique visitors.

Thanks to its variety and combination of technique, design and knowledge, anyone visiting Eindhoven will surely find something to his or her liking. All of which makes it one of the most popular European cities for hosting events and congresses.

The City of Lights

Eindhoven is being called “The City of lights”. Easy to link this to Philips and the lightbulb industry. However, it is said the city got this nickname for playing a big role in the Dutch 19th century match production industry.

Today, Eindhoven has grown into a young and modern city with a dynamic city centre. Upcoming areas such as Strijp-S, an abandoned Philips factory, are significant for Eindhoven as a city of design.

NH Collection Eindhoven Centre is a perfect fit with the city and its soul.

The elegant atmosphere and modern facilities of the hotel, will turn your stay into an unforgettable experience.
