Corporate Events – The Cloisters

In its monastic past, the Cloisters were one of the busiest parts of the Abbey where the monks spent much of their time. Each of the four cloisters is about 100 feet in length, forming a square around "Cloister Garth" - a lawned quadrangle with a fountain as its centrepiece.

Dating from the 13th to the 15th centuries, the Cloisters were used for meditation, exercise and providing a route into the main monastic buildings.

Today you can hire these spaces to treat your guests to an atmospheric event in this elegant open-air arcade in the heart of London.

400 for a reception in the East and North Cloisters
